MONDAY, MAY 18, 1868.

We need not add much to what we said in our paper of yesterday upon the proceedings of the Senate on Saturday. The whole matter is fully presented in our special despatches and those of the Asso ciated Press, and no comments can be needed for the enlightenment of our readers in regard to the nature and character f the court of impeachments action We presume that no intelligent person, even before the Saturday's vote in that body was given, doubted the correctness of our prediction-which, indeed, we had felt anthorized to put forth as a virtual assertion-that the Senators constituting the conti would, on Saturday, if they should find themselves unable to convict the President, adjourn to a future period without acquitting him. We knew that the radical majority would not permit his acquittal we knew that they would resort to any means, however shame-less, bold and impudent, to prevent such a result. And we were right in our prophecy that they would designate, in their ment, a day after the holding of unblushingly violated and set at defiance all the laws of fair dealing, honor, and honesty. As it was evident, from the vote on the eleventh article of impeachment. were in favor of acquittal, the President was entitled to a verdict, his friends were titled to a verdict-entitled to deliverance ons commotions that were then and are yet convulsion the whole land. The postponement on Tuesday revealed the guilty design of the impeachers; that on Satur

we ever were in our lives, the President sencommitted a blunder that they will yet bitterly rue. They basely violated the whole spirit of the oath taken by them as members of the court of impeachment. They were solemnly sworn to try the President fairly and impartially, but they showed by all their devices, their oddges, their strategems and mexpectedly disclosed the things, wonderful to tell, the majority did, and, in doing them, stripped from the motive of the adjournment every shred of pretext, leaving it naked to the, public gaze. For the cause of truth this is well. It is better their stratagems, and their mancenvers. arranged purpose to accord to him no trial in which there would be a possible chance of his getting the verdict that trnth and justice demanded at their hands. They were organized to convict, and, if they couldn't do that, to stave off a decision temporarily or permanently as might best suit them thereafter. derable reliance upon the power of their National Convention to regulate, by its mandates and by the manifesta which it is expected to be able to make, the action of the seven or eight obstinate radical Senators when the court shall re-assemble on the 26th. Yet we cannot doubt that this reliance will prove a poor. vain, and futile one. The Senators, the judges of the court of impeachment, have fully committed themselves in the eyes of mankind. They have declared, by their votes and otherwise, what they consider their oaths as binding them to do. To They would make themselves loathsome to the eyes and sonls of all living men and of all men who may live bereafter if they were to bow to and opinions of a convention, of whatever character, in a case where they are bound by oath to render, as judges and jurors, a verdict in accordance with the law and the testimony. Any injury which they could bring upon themselves by independent thought and action they have incurred already. If the Chicago sponsibility of dictating to the radical efore them, as it probably will, the step can have no other possible effect than to cover the convention with contempt, and render it and its entire action odious and obnoxious even to a large portion of the radical masses of the country. It will undoubtedly cost the jacobin party not less than a hundred thousand votes in grand position taken by a considerable portion of the ablest, wisest, best of the Republican members of the court has prepared the mind of the masses to hurl com them the shackles with which their leaders or those who claim to be their leaders would bind them.

Neverthelesa, we repeat and would re-peat emphatically, that President Johnson's acquittal, by the court of impeachment, of the charges upon which he is on trial, is impossible. To all whom it may concern, we say, without the slightest misgiving as to the truth of what we say, that by hook or by crook he will be con-victed and removed. There is no more chance or prohability of his escaping than there is of his conquering and reversing the laws of nature. If all other devices fail, the Senators of the reconstructed States will be brought in, under one or another act of circumstances, to vote. The heard the testimony, the argument, and the indical charge, are incompetent to vote, that they are no part of the court, that the court, as at first organized, will remain the court till the end of the trial. ore sagacity than it has shown. From the beginning, we have not doubtpostpone the decision, and we so expressed ourselves before the articles of impeach-ment had been exhibited. The tendency of the developments of the trial down to the adjournment of Tuesdey, owever, seemed pretty strongly to indicate that the majority nnhappily would not be reduced to this alternative, hut, on the contrary, that conviction would be carried without much difficulty, for which eason we at first were very incredulous epecting the conjecture that postponenent would take place, no corresponding probability of acquittal having yet ap-peared as a foundation for the conjecture; but the adjournment of Tuesday, with the evelopments immediately subsequent, rought that probability into full view, and we felt no hesitation in predicting that the court on Saturday would either convict or adjourn and was not likely to opvict. And this we did predict.

This we predicted but we did not pre-dict, nor did the thought cross our mind or even peep into it, that the majority of the court would be so benighted and ob-tuse as to begin the vote without being certain of conviction, or so wicked and mies in the Senate blandered. The y progress had nnexpectedly disclosed the certainty of acquirtal. Yet both of these than we apprehended. We did not count on such mingled fatnity and audacity in the majority. The adjournment now stands confessed as designed not merely to withhold from the President the acquit tal to which he is entitled under the Con stitution and the laws, but to secure his con riction hereafter in open defiance of both body can have the effrontery to deny it a great point gained. Let the people duly

We have said that under the Constitution and the laws the President is entitled to acquittal and he is. That is to say, he was entitled to the completion of the final vote after it was begun under the order of the Senate, and nobody protesses to donbt that the completion of the ote involved his acquittal; the disclosure of this fact by the vote on the test article as we have seen, confessedly occasioned the stopping of the vote by an adjo ment to a particular day. But this ad ournment was a monstrons outrage on parliamentary law. It was a sheer piece of brute force. A motion to adjourn to a particular day, unlike a simple motion to o adjourn to the 26th instant, pending the execution of the resolution that the court should proceed to take the final vote tempt of parliamentary usage. It was : order, Senator Conness appealed to the court, which recklessly overruled the de-cision, thereby making the scandal its own. And a burning scandal it is. I

Ner will this consuming scandal work radical division of the court, which trans lated to the Chicago Convention, as it cannot fail to be, will pass thence into the general circulation of the party, preading its poison throughout the organ-zation. Death is thus not only gnawing at the vitals of the party but conrsing in its veins. The party, as we have said heretofore, is doomed. Its days are numbered, and they are few. It is dying of the slow poison of its own crimes against law and justice. The action of this poison may or may not be quickered by the stern opposition of the Chief Justice at a later and still more ignominious yet distinctly contemplated stage of the proceedings of the court, but, whether it shall he or not, the fate of the party is fixed. Whether the party shall die by inches, or shall die by rods, or, like the pig that had lived in clover, shall die all over, it is certain to die by the idea of November. This is enough. "'Twill serve." Ask for the radical party after then, and you shall find it a "grave" party. Trumbull has five years yet to serve in the Senate before histerm expires. Doubtless he imagines this long trial will save his flanks from the political gaddles.—

WILLARD'S HOTEL, WASHINGTON, May 14, 1868 } Yesterday Senator Grimes was attacked with paralysis, Rumors are readily mag-nified in such a city as Washington, when excitement runs high already. It was not extraordinary that many were found who knew absolutely that he was in extremis. The facts, as we understand hem, are not so had, and it is anticipated his seat when required to discharge his high and patriotic duty. As usual the fanatical radicals only saw in this a dispensation of Providence. A Senator, who said this with a grave face, was asked in what category be placed the brain lever of Senator Howard. His reply was, Judas Iscariot comparatively blameless, and whose preachers announce that the Republicans and God brought the war to a successful termination, must have many sterling Christians in its ranks.

Col. Forney's resignation did not excite marked surprise. The attacks made by him upon Senators had created such a hostility, that a majority would have arrayed themselves against his longer con-tinuance in office. The Secretary is elected only during the pleasure of the Senate, and they could have ejected him any day simply by selecting a successor. Prudence dictated his resignation, and, as he announces, "he is no longer restrained by any official embarrassment in commenting upon the course of men who, ia this critical hour, have joined hand with Andrew Johnson and his rebel associates and sympathisers." The attack upou Fessenden, Grimes, Trambull and others, is almost as ferocious as the atrocions sen timents expressed in the New York Tri-bune. Forncy intends to take an active part in the coming campaign, and, it is presumed, will now take the Chicago Con-vention under his protecting wing, and will indicate to the assembled wisdom exactly what they shall do. The situation is almost identical with that of the Fillmore committee in Louisville. Advice from l'ennsylvania gave reiterated assurance that the Buchanan ticket would be defeated in October. Accordingly letters were addressed to all the Fillmore editors of the South, that it was our policy to have editorials prepared everywhere in antici-pation of the event, and that a simultaneous demand should be made for a united Southern vote (by the withdrawal of Buchanen), which, with New York claimed by us), would secure Fremont's and the Buchanan ticket was not defeated. The various editors submitted complacent oubtless had prepared a magnificent address to the people, and was crushed be-neath the weight of such a loss of brilliant argument and cogent reasoning. The following laconic despatch arrived the next day: "Gentlemen: Buchanan has not lost Pennsylvania. What in the hell shall be Congress from istil to 1813, declining further service, was again in the State Legislature in 1845 and 1846, and re-elected in 1853 and 1851, and was elected a Senator in Congress for six years from March, 1853, serving as a member of the Committee on Finance, and in 1859 was re-elected for a term of six years, serving as Chairman of the Committee on Finance, on the Library Committee, and also as a Regent of the Smithsonian Institution. He was also Chairman of the Special Joint Committee on Reconstruction. He was also Chairman of the Convention which nominated Henry Clay for President, and also of the Convention which nominated Henry Clay for President, and also of the Conventions that nominated Generals Taylor and that nominated Generals Taylor and Scott. Juring the summer of 1858 the degree of LL. D. was conferred apon him by Bowdoin College, of which institution be is a trustee. He was also a member of the Peace Congress of 1861. In July 1863 he was appointed by President Lincoln Secretary of the Tresury in the place of S. P. Chase, resigned, and soon afterward received from Howard University the degree of LL. D. In 1864 he was reelected a Senator in Congress for the term commencing in 1865 and ending in 1871. He resigned his seat in the Camet and again took his seat in the Senate, March 4, 1865, and was sagain placed at the head of the Committee on Finance. At the succeeding session of Congress he was made chairman of the Special Joint Committee on Reconstruction (so called), and was the author of the report of that committee recommending an amendment to the Constitution.

In personal appearance Mr. Fessenden is not prepossessing. He is about the medium height, with a fine head covered with gray hair, a high forehead, a prominent nose, and a mouth and chin which tell of firmness and determination, according to the physiognomists. He has not been in good health for some years. He is said to be a confirmed dyspeptic. He inherits his brains from his father, who was a noted man in New England politics many years ago, and who, during the war of 1812, made a speech in the Massachnestts Legislature in which he proposed to "go to Washington with the sword in one hand and the constitution in the other, and demand that this unrighteous war shall cease."

James W. Grimes was born in Deering, H. Ilsboro county, New Hampshire, Detober 16, 1816. Commenced his education at Hempton Academy, and graduated at Dartmouth college in 1836. Soon after that time he emigrated to the West, and in 1858 was elected to the first General Assembly of the Territory of Iows, to which he was frequently re-elected. He was Governor of the State of lowa from L51 to 1658, and in 1559 he was elected a Senator in Congress from that State for six years, serv

Senate to attend the fineral of Gen. Scott in 1866.

Mr. Grimes is a man without much polish of manner or address, but with great good common sense, which serves him instead. He is far from being a scholar, and yet he makes some of the ablest and most convincing speeches delivered in the Schate, especially on questions of tariff, regarding the injustice of which he is well informed and always prepared. Much of what progress has been made toward convincing the people of the Northwest that they ought not to submit to the prohibitory. New England tariff is due to Mr. Grimes and his steady opposition to the oppressive system, the enormities of which he has so often exposed. Grimes figured pretty, largely a few years ago in a controversy about the corruptions of the Navy Department. John P. Hale, who was at that time Chairman of the Naval Committee, of which Grimes was a member, made a desperate on-slnaght upon the management of the Navy shaght npon the management of the Navy Department. It was ceatinned for weeks. Grimes championed the department as vigorously as Hale attacked it. The result of the controversy was bad for Hale. Grimes is now Hale a successor as Chairman of the Naval Committee, and performs the duties of the position very efficiently. The personal appearance of Mr. Grimes is not entirely prepossessing. He is careless of his dress, which at times looks neither neat nor vands, but the reooks neither neat nor gandy, but the re-

Impeachment From an Eng-lish Point of View-Nothing to Justify the President's Re-The great state trial of the New World is rapidly approaching its close, and any hour may now bring its close of the jindgment prosounced noon Andrew Johnson by the American Senate. It is a strange end of a mighty conflict—a singular example of political bathos. The most gigantic, costly, and sanguinary struggle ever known has definded into a prosecution of which we, in this country, can only think that it need never have been instituted at all. Whether the President of the Republic did or did not commit the offences imputed to him is a question which it really seems hardly necessary to entertain, so plain does the conclusion appear, according to English opinions, that these offences were not such as should have put him apon his trial. The whole charge against President Johnson amounts to little more than this, that he placed himself in opposition to Congress. The Executive and Legislative bave been for some time at variance, but that is a misfortnue which might occur at any time. The Constitution gave powers to Congress and powers to the President, and it was always possible that these anthorities might duffer in opinion. No don't such a natagonism might be carried by a President to such a point and be supported by such meanires as would justify an impeachment, but it seems am-

The legal aspect of the case may be a fair questin for American lawyers to determine, but even on this point there appears, at any rate, as much to be said for the President as should have saved him from this prosecution. A haw was passed by Congress, avowedly in prejudice of Mr. Johnson's authority, to the effect that it should not be competent to the President to remove from office certain Ministers of State. This law was designed expressly to bridle Mr. Johnson, and present the president of the Cabinet whose sympathies might be rather with Congress than with the President. Mr. Stanton, Minister of War, had been appointed to his place by Presi against Mr. Johnson personally, insomuch that evidence was offered during the trial, but refinsed by the Senate, to the effect that the whole Cabinet, including Mr. Stanton himself, advised the Precident to put his veto upon it. It passed, however, and became law, but there was obviously a question whether the act could have such a retrospective operation as to affect the tenure of an office conferred by a former President under different conditions. Mr. Johnson considered that it could not, and he proceeded at a later period to remove Mr. Stanton upon the ground that the office, as he held it, was tenable only during the President's pleasure. It seems to no impossible to maintain that this proceeding, whether actually a breach of the law or not, was such a breach as to require or justify an impeachment. There was certainly sufficient doubt about the effect of the bill to give Mr. Johnson some excuse inthinking himself at liberty, and there are, moreover, other circumstances telling strongly in his favor. It was stated in his defeore that in the opinion he formed upon this case he had the concurrence and support of his constitutional advisers, and it is of still greater importance to observe, what has been openly alleged for him and never contradicted, that his sole object in dealing with Mr. Stanton was to obtain a case which might go before the Supreme Cont, and there be decided according to constitutional law. In the face of these considerations, it seems to us impossible to regard the President's act in removing the Minister of War as constituting such a high crime and mademeaner as would call for his indictment and trial before the onntry.

The impeachment of the Chief Magis in America, that the act was such a vio-lation of law as to demand these extreme proceedings. It will be far easier to rule that the President has occasionally been indiscreet of speech, but this, too, will give very little support to the case for impeachment. Nobody can deny that Mr. Johnson's conduct has fallen short of the dignity of his place, but we are bound to add that, upon the whole, it has been as he-coming and as politic as those who placed him in office by their votes were entitled to anticipate. Taking his official career from first to last, he has certainly exceed-ed the expectations which were formed of him. It is not for no to beg the question

Discovery of Gold Mines in Africa —
A German traveler named Mauch, a member of the Geographical Society of Gotha, has recently arrived at Natal from a journey of exploration in the interior of Africa. He reports having discovered two gold mines, one of them of great extent, situated about 900 miles from Natal, in a northwest direction. These mines are in a country governed by two chiefs. in a northwest direction. These mines are in a country governed by two chiefs, who can bring into the field 10,000 warriors between them. The country is very healthy and water is abundant. The geological character of the country indigeological character of the country indi-cates an extraordinary amount of aurifer-ous wealth. There are but few of the Aborigines in the neighborhood of the mines. The existence of small pits, about three yaids deep, throughout the region, would seem to indicate, as Dr. Living-stone has already said, that in former times the Kaffirs were acquainted with the art of extracting the precious metal. M. Mauch took with him to Natal Eventry minimes the Kaffirs were acquainted with the art of extracting the precious metal. M. Mauch took with him to Natal twenty mineralogical specimens. The auriferous ones consisted of a light colored quartz, containing several pieces of gold, and the others contained iron and lead. All the information given by this traveler confirms the description of the country in question which Dr. Livingstone finnishes in the first edition of his travels.

WASHINGTON.

The Situation at the Capital-General Grant and the Presidency-John C. Breckinridge,

WASHINGTON, May 17. The following statement is predicated on information derived from high, respectable sources: It is generally known here that some of the members, if not all, of President Johnson's Cabinet have all, of President Johnson's Cabinet have signified their willingness to retire from office, and hence there is much apeculation on that subject. Prominent gentlemen of both parties, in a conversation recently, agreed in the sentiment that much of the trouble between Congress and the President springs from the defect of the Executive administration under our present form of government, and that if the ministry here, as in England, would retire and give place to oue in accord with the expressed will of the people, we should have had peace long ago. Reconstruction, under the present plan having hear present did it. people, we should have had peace long ago. Heconstruction, nuder the present plan, having been rejected, it is now though by Congressmen of both parties that he will agree to admit Sonthern Representatives in any way practicable, in order that it may have no effect on their judgment in passing ou articles of impeachment. It is said that if impeachment had not been pending, there is but little doubt that a naw Cahipet would long since have been designed.

The Laciede Racing Association, whose spring meeting begins to-morrow, have decided to hold an annual horse fair at their grounds near this city, and have appointed a committee to arrange a programme and premium list for the first fair, which is to be held come time in June. They have also changed the name of the association to the Laclede Fair Grounds. The name of the fair to be held in June will be the Great Mississippi Valley Horse Fair.

George Pomeroy, of New York, who some months since brought anit against William H. Benton, of this city, for over a million of dollars, has filed in the Circuit Court an amended petition, reducing the amount of the claim to $500,000.

The announcement of the vote on the eleventh article in the impeachment trial yesterday produced no apecial excitement, but has been the subject of much conversation, the conduct of Hendersoa and Rosa being especially commented on by Republicans.

MILITARY ARRESTS —The power of the bayonet and the weakness of law was again manifest in our city yesterday. About 10 o'c ock Jamee W. Barber, City Wharfinger and Clerk of the Interior Court—who a day or two since resigned the latter position—and Wade Stephens, both white men, and John Weits and James Stapler, freedmen, were arrested by the unitary anthorities immediately. James Stapler, freedmen, were arrested by the minary anthorities, immediately lodged in the guard house, and at two o'clock sent to Savannah, via the Macon train, in custody of ten armed roldtere. It is needless to add, the arrested persons were members of the bamocratic party. They are among the number who, some aix weeks ago, were confined for no canne that was made public, by the military officials, in the court house, for five days, and then released on a bond signed by some four hundred of our citizens. Unavaiting attempts were made yesterday to discover the tense of these measures. Prominent lawyers were told, when the prisoners arrived in Savannan, they would tearn what charges were preferred against them. The eupposition is that scalawags here, whose inlinence seems to be potent with epanlettes and shoulder straps, from private pique, had the arrests made, and wate spaniettes and shoulder straps, from private plue, had the arrests maie, and that the parties are to be tried before a military commission for causes only can be conjectured, Arrangements have been made to secure distinguished counsel in Savannah for the prisoners. No one is rafe rfom these arbitrary streets.—Columbus (Ga.) Sun and Times.

THE NEW AUSTRIAN PRINCESS .- The "special correspondent of the London Times, writing from Pesth, describes the satisfaction caused by the birth of their princess—the daughter of the Empress of satisfaction caused by the birth of their princess—the daughter of the Empress of Austria: i.e., the Queen of Hungary. The event had been long expected. It was fixed for the beginning of the month, put off sill the middle, and then again postponed, and at last the people began almost to despair. But at six on the morning of the 22d of April, just before the Italian marriage took place, the Hungarian birth came off. A salute of twenty one guns annonned the event to the citizens of Buda-Pesth. They waited for another, but it did not come, and so they learned, a little to their disappointment, that their eagerly looked-for "Stephen" was "only a girl" after all. Nevertheless, they made merry on the occasion, and illnminated their heantiful twin city, and decked it with flags, and themselves in holiday garments, and sang the "Te Denm" in the old Hungarian Cathedral of Buda. They are very pleased altogether, and the more so became it is well known that their Queen had great obstacles to overcome, for the Viennese are great worshipers of etiquette, and were scandalized at the idea of a Hapsburg being horn in despised Hungary.

I.srge grants of land have been made under condition that so many actual settlers shall be located on the land by a certain time, and the whole administration of the government has been marked by signal ability on the part of the Emperor. His empire has a population of about ten millions. He has carefully studied the language and policy of the United States, has improved his mind by deep, scientific culture, read closely the best authors in several languages, projected railroads, opened up the Amazon and many of its more important brauches to the commerce of the world, and, in fact, has done and is doing a most important work for the improvement and civilization of Brazil.

Being new only between forty and fifty, in the very prime of life, therefore, although he has been a nominal sovereign nearly forty years, and in possession of full regal authority since 1840, nearly thirty years, it is a matter of no little question with many why he should desire to abdicate the throne, especially as he is exceedingly popular, and one of the most successful of the monarchs of his age. His government has been mild and liberal; he has been the friend of reform and progress; has made himself respected and sincerely esteemed, both in his intercourse with foreign nations and in the promotion of the welfare of his own people. Early in his course, he made England his fast friend by abolishing the slave trade: and since our own liberation of the colored race has shown himself decidedly in favor of a mild and carefully considered system of emancipation for Brazil, and has made a number of wise suggestions as to the best method of carrying out that great measure.

There certainly is no other member of the House of Braganza so wise and so competent to be at the head of a nation as this same Emperor of Brazil; and there is no doubt that his hubdication would be a great loss to the country over whose counsels have got his difficulties with Paraguay into a fair way of honorable and successful seathers. It he has taught the Brazil

A FAITHFUL WATCHER.-In the winter A FAITHFUL WATCHER.—In the winter of 1864 a wagon came to this city and stood all night on Cheapside. There was a large hlack dog belonging to the owner of the wagon, and, by some chance, when the wagon west away in the morning the dog was left behind. Possibly he was out gallanting among the canine belles of the city, and did not return in time, or perhaps hunger impelled him to seek something to eat, and he mistook the hour, but, however it happened, so it was—the dog was left. The poor dog has patiently watched for the return of his master ever since that fatal morning. PORT OF LOUISVILLE.

Summer Fashions for Children.
The passion for extravagent display is exhibited as strongly in the fashions for children as in those of adults, to the great detriment of the child, in a moral as well as in a phylical polatof view.
It is not absolutely necessary to return to the "pinafore" and "shingle" era which flourished twenty-five years ago; but we need not, either, dress our children in the fantastic style of balled darcere, load them with ornaments, and spoil them for usefulness hy making dress the main object of their lives.
Not a week ago we saw a haby of three months that had had its tender little arrayiered and rings hung from them. Loops of gold clasped its sleeves, brace-lets were hung upon its arms, and rings priesed upon its little fat fingers; but the tracity of the ear-ring operation was little short of barbarous. The narse of the child weet bitterly over it, and protested against it, but the vanity of the young mother trimmphed over every other consideration. She thought est-ringe would look so "cunning" upon such a little laby!

The Collscame by Bengal Lights
A correspondent of the New York World, writing from Rome, says: The Collscam by moonlight has been one of the orthodox sights of Rome, at least since the day when Byren eang the enchantment of a midnight hour "within the Collscam's wall," and probably before.
But a new phase of delight has been discovered of late years in its illumination by Bengal lights on an extensive scale, and the display of these effects on Thursday last attracted immense crowds withth and without the ancient amphitheater.
A rocket or two sent up from the Meta Sidars announced at intervale each separate effect, and the entire exhibition lasted about an hour. A military band was autioned on the height occupied by the temples of Venus and Rome, and pisyed siternately with the band of the Palainin Guard, pisced within the circus. The more expensive places for the spectacle were the chairs down in the arens, which cost three france, but the best coup d'out was certainly from the outside, and it was magnificate to pas chero here at hair a feance ach, and another fifty centimes, if you chose to hire a seat.

The sight had at least the charm of belieg perfectly unique, and the variety made by the rapid combinations of color, and changes from red to green, violet, yellow, white, blue, and crimson were marvelously arranged. The concluding effect of a complete external lilumination by intenest red fire, which randered visible every detail of the architecture, every "rent of ruln," all glowing in the noblest Tyrian dye, was something perfectly novel and nnexpected. At the first lighting up from within the owls and birds of all kinds, who other nighte are sherse masters of the cituation, flew wildly out and were distinctly defined against a background of rosy smoks, that was ascending and melling into thin air. The spectacle was the speculation of the Fucchista, the fire-works maker in ordinary of the Government, who achieves euch marvele twice a year at the Girandola, and his How an Eruption of Vesuvius Looks. A correspondent of the Pall Mail Gazette, writing from Mount Vesuvius, April 4, gives the following nunsually clear and interesting account of one of the explosive exhibitions of that immus monntain:

"We had heard several explosions as we came up the upontuit, and had seen Government, who achieves euch marvele twice a year at the Girandola, end his pecuniary successes Thursday night have led him to annonnee a repetition, with "new and startling effects," for next Tuesday. Unlike the Collecum hy moonitght, however, the artificial illumination is scarcely likely to attract the same people to witness the same sort of thing twice over within so short a time.
